Objectives: to develop knowledge and skills in reading, writing and critical thinking; to give the ability to students to develop culturally and acquire knowledge of the best that has been thought and written; to encourage students to read widely; to prepare for teaching/reading literature working with pupils; to enable learners to read, interpret and evaluate texts through the study of English literature; to recognise and appreciate the ways in which writers use English to achieve a range of effects.

Intended capabilities: The students should be able to:

- have expertise in English literature for children
- read a wide range of children's literature fluently and with good understanding, and make connections across their reading;
- read in depth and critically; discuss, evaluate and explain their understanding and ideas;
- develop the habit of reading widely and often;
- appreciate the depth and power of the English literary heritage;
- write accurately, effectively and analytically about their reading, using Standard English;
- acquire and use a wide vocabulary, including the grammatical terminology1 and other literary and linguistic terms they need to criticise and analyse what they read.

Description. The knowledge the students create in the course will give them a competitive advantage in their further studies and practical work. The course is conducted at the Education Department of Ivan Franko National University of Lviv. It includes lectures, practical classes and workshops. Moreover, the students work/study individually fulfilling a kind of the most essential work – reading fiction works in English. The main material highlights the most prominent fiction works of English children's literature taking into study Old English, Middle Ages and Modern English periods. The students are provided with the heritage of English literature learning to analyze fiction using generally accepted terminology.

Objectives: provide students – future educators – with knowledge and practical tools for developing and enhancing creative thinking during their teaching practice. This is achieved by familiarizing students with the theoretical/scientific understanding and practical techniques/tools that can be used to enhance their capacity in this field. Thus, the course includes both theory and practice – both reading/thinking and acting.

Intended capabilities: After the course, students are able to:

• understand and have developed insights in creativity and innovation – in theory and practice – both for individuals and groups/classrooms;

- plan, carry out and evaluate different strategies, methods and tools aimed at developing creative thinking;
- use various materials and intellectual resources creatively.

The knowledge the students create in the course will give them a competitive advantage in their further studies and practical work. Society today is looking for people who are creative and able to enhance creativity and innovations in their organization or in education environment in general.

Description. This optional course introduces creativity and innovation as a topic on the academic agenda and as a source for development and growth. The course is conducted at the Department of Special Education and Inclusion, Ivan Franko National University of Lviv. The course includes teacher driven lectures, practical classes and workshops. The students work/study in teams of 4-5 students. Each team uses insights, methods and tools of innovation and creativity and also practices some of the methods. Individually the students also present a paper (in oral and in written form) at a final seminar with their understanding/learning in creativity and innovation in the course with references to the course literature.
